

Dirt

By Johnathon Rodriguez

For one dirt is a starting ground

A ground to go space bound

You have to start from somewhere after all

Some would make it a home

And others would make it fuel

For something to become something greater.

Take Gandhi for example,

He could make dirt into something great,

Then take Yusuke:

He could make dirt into a master piece

Both of these guys

Can show how dirt is something that can become anything

Most people think its nothing

When in reality

It's the beginning of everything

Dirt is the building block of life.

Coming from nothing

To become everything.
